REPORT ON REVIEW OF INTERIM FINANCIAL INFORMATION

To the Shareholders, Board of Directors and Management of Ultrapar Participações S.A.

Introduction

We have reviewed the accompanying individual and consolidated interim financial information of Ultrapar Participações S.A. ("Company"), included in the Interim Financial Information Form - ITR, for the quarter ended September 30, 2026, which comprises the statements of financial position as at September 30, 2026 and the related statements of income and comprehensive income for the three and nine-month periods then ended, and of changes in equity and of cash flows for the nine-month period then ended, including material accounting policies and the explanatory notes.

Management is responsible for the preparation of this individual and consolidated interim financial information in accordance with technical pronouncement CPC 21 (R1) and international standard IAS 34 - Interim Financial Reporting, issued by the International Accounting Standards Board (IASB), as well as for the presentation of such information in accordance with the standards issued by the Brazilian Securities and Exchange Commission - CVM. Our responsibility is to express a conclusion on this interim financial information based on our review.

Scope of review

We conducted our review in accordance with Brazilian and international standards on review of interim financial information (NBC TR 2410 and ISRE 2410 Review of Interim Financial Information Performed by the Independent Auditor of the Entity). A review of interim financial information consists of making inquiries, primarily of people responsible for financial and accounting matters, and applying analytical and other review procedures. A review is substantially less in scope than an audit conducted in accordance with the standards on auditing and, consequently, does not enable us to obtain assurance that we would become aware of all significant matters that might be identified in an audit. Accordingly, we do not express an audit opinion.

Conclusion on the individual and consolidated interim financial information

Based on our review, nothing has come to our attention that causes us to believe that the accompanying individual and consolidated interim financial information has not been prepared, in all material respects, in accordance with CPC 21 (R1) and IAS 34, and presented in accordance with the standards issued by CVM.

The individual and consolidated interim financial information referred to above includes the individual and consolidated statements of value added ("DVA") for the nine-month period ended September 30, 2026, prepared under the responsibility of the Company's Management, and presented as supplemental information for international standard IAS 34 purposes. These statements were subject to the review procedures performed together with the review of the interim financial information to reach a conclusion on whether they are reconciled with the interim financial information and the accounting records, as applicable, and if their form and content are consistent with the criteria set forth in technical pronouncement CPC 09 (R1) - Statement of Value Added. Based on our review, nothing has come to our attention that causes us to believe that these statements of value added were not prepared, in all material respects, in accordance with the criteria defined in such technical pronouncement and consistently with the individual and consolidated interim financial information taken as a whole.

7. Recoverable taxes (Consolidated)

7.1. Recoverable taxes

Recoverable taxes are substantially represented by credit balances of Tax on Goods and Services ("ICMS", the Brazilian VAT), Contribution for Social Security Financing ("COFINS"), Social Integration Program ("PIS"), Corporate Income Tax (IRPJ) , and Social Contribution on Net Income (CSLL).

	09/30/2026	12/31/2025
ICMS (7.1.1)	1,561,272	1,394,916
PIS and COFINS (7.1.2)	4,703,114	3,863,682
IRPJ and CSLL (7.1.3)	817,162	664,056
Others	170,904	144,643
Total	7,252,452	6,067,297
Current	3,118,972	2,003,389
Non-current	4,133,480	4,063,908

7.1.1 The recoverable ICMS net of provision for losses is substantially related to the following operations:

Tax credits arise mainly from: (a) purchases and sales of products subject to ICMS under the regular regime; (b) interstate shipments of oil-related products for which ICMS was paid in advance by the supplier (Petrobras); and (c) refund claims for ICMS-ST overpaid when the presumed tax base exceeds the actual transaction amount.

The amounts of recoverable ICMS are realized through the Company's own operations subject to taxes, being a revolving credit, which means that the credits are monthly offset against the tax payable on sales and new credits are generated by the acquisition of inputs, as well as by the State's refund on tax substitution operations. Management estimates the realization of the credits classified in non-current assets within a term of up to 5 years.

7.1.2 The recoverable PIS and COFINS are substantially related to:

ICMS in the PIS and COFINS calculation basis - The balance of PIS and COFINS includes credits recorded under Laws 10,637/02 and 10,833/03, as well as amounts arising from a STF's favorable decision (Theme 69) regarding the exclusion of ICMS from the PIS and COFINS calculation basis. The Company, through its subsidiaries, has credits in the amount of R$ 2,096,130 (R$ 2,039,260 as of December 31, 2025).

Supplementary Law 192 - On March 11, 2022 Supplementary Law ("LC" 192/22") was published to reduce the tax burden of the fuel supply chain. Art. 9 of said law established the reduction of the PIS and COFINS tax rates levied on diesel, biodiesel and LPG to zero through December 31, 2022, ensuring at the same time the maintenance of credits taken across the whole supply chain up to September 21, 2022 (90 days after the publication of LC 194/22 that restricted the right to take credits on taxpayers), when it became effective.

Ultrapar - Internal

The Company, through its subsidiaries, has credits in the amount of R$ 1,764,799 (R$ 814,319 as of December 31, 2025) under LC 192/22. These credits were recorded considering the expectation of realization by the Company within a 5-year period from the date of generation, period in which the Company has the ability to use these credits. The estimated realization is updated periodically considering the estimated future results. As a result of this revaluation, in the period ended September 30, 2026, the Company recognized additional credits of R$ 1,548,804 under cost of products and services sold.

7.1.3. Recoverable income tax and social contribution

Relates to IRPJ and CSLL to be recovered by the Company and its subsidiaries, arising from the tax advances of previous years, as well as referring to lawsuits on the non-levy of IRPJ and CSLL on the monetary variation (SELIC) in the refunds of taxes unduly paid. Management estimates the realization of these credits within up to 5 years.

The fair value of financial instruments measured at Level 2 is described below:

Securities and funds in local currency: Estimated at the fund unit value as of the date of the financial statements, which corresponds to their fair value.

Derivative instruments: Estimated based on the US dollar futures contracts and the future curves of the DI x fixed rate and DI x IPCA contracts, quoted on B3 on the closing date.

Energy trading futures contracts: The fair value considers: (i) the prices established in recent purchases and sales; and (ii) the market price projected in the availability period. Whenever the fair value at initial recognition differs from the transaction price for these contracts, a gain or loss is recognized.

Financing and debentures: Estimated based on the US dollar futures contracts and the future curves of the DI x fixed rate and DI x IPCA contracts, quoted on B3 on the closing date. The fair value calculation of notes in the foreign market used the quoted price in the market.

In accordance with the Policy, the main objectives of financial management are to preserve the value and liquidity of financial assets and ensure financial resources for the development of the business, including expansions. The main financial risks considered in the Policy are market risks (currencies, interest rates and commodities), liquidity and credit.

The Financial Risk Committee is responsible for monitoring the compliance with the Policy and deciding on any cases of non-compliance. The Audit and Risk Committee ("CAR") advises the Board of Directors on the efficiency of controls and in the review of the Risk Management Policy. The Risk, Integrity and Audit Director monitors the compliance with the Policy and reports to CAR and the Board of Directors the exposure to the risks and any cases of non-compliance with the Policy.

The Company and its subsidiaries are exposed to the following risks, which are mitigated and managed using specific financial instruments:

Risks	Exposure origin	Management
Market risk - exchange rate	Possibility of losses resulting from exposures to exchange rates other than the functional presentation currency, which may be of a financial or operational origin.	Seek exchange rate neutrality, using hedging instruments if applicable.
Market risk - interest rate	Possibility of losses resulting from the contracting of fixed-rate financial assets or liabilities.	Maintain most of the net financial exposure indexed to floating rates, linked to the basic interest rate.
Market risk - commodity prices	Possibility of losses resulting from changes in the prices of the main raw materials or products sold by the Company and their effects on profit or loss, statement of financial position and cash flow.	Hedging instruments, if applicable.
Credit risk	Possibility of losses associated with the counterparty's failure to comply with financial obligations due to insolvency issues or deterioration in risk classification.	Diversification and monitoring of counterparty's solvency and liquidity indicators.
Liquidity risk	Possibility of inability to honor obligations, including guarantees, and incurring losses.	For cash management: financial investments liquidity. For debt management: seek the combination of better terms and costs, by monitoring the ratio of average debt term to financial leverage.

26.1. Market risk - exchange and interest rates

Currency risk management is guided by neutrality of currency exposures and considers the risks associated to changes in exchange rates. The Company considers as its main exposure the assets and liabilities in foreign currency.

The Company and its subsidiaries use foreign exchange hedging instruments to protect their assets, liabilities, receipts, disbursements and investments in foreign currencies. These instruments aim to reduce the effects of foreign exchange variations, within the exposure limits of its Policy.

As to the interest rate risk, the Company and its subsidiaries raise and invest funds mainly linked to the DI. The Company seeks to maintain most of its financial assets and liabilities with floating interest rates, adopting instruments that hedge against the risk of changes in interest rates.

The assets and liabilities exposed to foreign currency, translated to Reais, and/or exposed to floating interest rates are shown below:

(i) The average U.S. dollar rate of R$ 5.3281 was used for the sensitivity analysis, based on future market curves as of September 30, 2026 on the net position of the Company exposed to the currency risk, simulating the effects of devaluation of the Real on profit or loss. The closing rate considered was R$ 5.1809. The table above shows the effects of the exchange rate changes on the net asset position of R$ 351,879 (or US$ 67,919 using the closing rate) in foreign currency as of September 30, 2026.

(ii) For the probable scenario presented, the Company used as a base scenario the market curves affected by the Interbank Deposit (DI) rate and the Long-Term Interest Rate (TJLP). The sensitivity analysis shows the incremental expenses and income that would be recognized in financial result, if the market curves of floating interest at the base date were applied to the average balances of the current year. The annual base rate used was 13.65% and the sensitivity rate was 13.54% according to reference rates made available by B3.

26.2. Market risk - commodity prices

The Company and its subsidiaries are exposed to commodity price risk, mainly in relation to diesel and gasoline, affected by macroeconomic and geopolitical factors.

The foreign exchange derivative instruments and commodities designated for fair value hedge are concentrated in subsidiary IPP. The objective is to convert the cost of the imported product from fixed to variable until fuel blending, aligning it to the sales price. IPP uses over-the-counter derivatives for this hedge operation, aligning them with the value of the inventories of imported product.

To mitigate this risk, the Company continuously monitors the market and uses hedge operations with derivative contracts, traded on the stock exchange and the over-the-counter market.

Derivative	Fair value (R$ thousand)		Possible scenario (Δ of 10% - R$ thousand)

[1] The table above shows the positions of derivative financial instruments to hedge commodity price risk as of September 30, 2026 and December 31, 2025, in addition to a sensitivity analysis considering a 10% appreciation of the closing price for each period. For further information, see Note 26.6.

26.3. Credit risk

Credit risk is related to the possibility of non-compliance with a commitment by a counterparty in a transaction. Credit risk is managed strategically and arises from cash equivalents, financial investments, derivative financial instruments and trade receivables, among others.

Ultrapar - Internal

26.3.1 Financial institutions and government

The credit risk of financial institutions and governments related to cash and cash equivalents, financial investments and derivative financial instruments as of September 30, 2026, by counterparty rating, is summarized below:

Others	68,060	54,491
Total	10,642,362	10,308,797

26.3.2 Trade receivables

Credit granting is managed in subsidiaries based on policies and criteria specific to each business segment. The process includes credit analysis, the establishment of limits and required guarantees, with approval at predefined approval levels.

The subsidiaries manage credit throughout the customer's life cycle, with specific processes for monitoring credit risk and renegotiating or executing credit, as applicable.

For further information on the allowance for expected credit losses, see Note 5.2.

26.4. Liquidity risk

Liquidity risk is the possibility of the Company facing difficulties to comply with its financial obligations, which must be settled with payments or other financial assets.

The main sources of liquidity of the Company and its subsidiaries arise from:

(i) cash and financial investments;
(ii) cash flow generated by its operations; and
(iii) loans.

The Company and its subsidiaries have sufficient working capital and sources of financing to meet their current needs. As of September 30, 2026, the Company and its subsidiaries had R$ 6,328,391 in cash, cash equivalents, and short-term financial investments (for quantitative information, see Note 4).

The table below presents a summary of financial liabilities and leases payable as of September 30, 2026 by the Company and its subsidiaries, listed by maturity. The amounts presented are the contractual undiscounted cash flows, and may differ from the amounts disclosed in the statement of financial position:

(1) The interest on loans was estimated based on the closing US dollar and euro exchange rates and on the future yield curves of the DI x fixed rate and DI x IPCA contracts, quoted on B3 and BACEN as of September 30, 2026.
(2) Includes estimated interest on short-term and long-term loans until the contractually foreseen payment date.
(3) The derivative instruments were estimated based on the US dollar futures contracts and the future curves of the DI x fixed rate and DI x IPCA contracts, quoted on B3 as of September 30, 2026. In the table above, only the derivative instruments with negative results at the time of settlement were considered.

26.5. Capital management

The Company manages and optimizes its capital structure based on indicators to ensure business continuity while maximizing return to its shareholders.

Capital structure is comprised of net debt (loans, financing and debentures according to Note 15 and leases payable according to Note 12.2 after deduction of cash, cash equivalents and financial investments according to Note 4), and the "financial" derivative financial instruments, assets and liabilities, according to Note 26 Classes and categories of financial instruments and their fair values, and equity.

The Company may change its capital structure according to economic and financial conditions. Moreover, the Company also seeks to improve its return on invested capital by implementing efficient working capital management and a selective investment program.

Annually, the Company and its subsidiaries review their capital structure, evaluating the cost of capital and the risks associated with each class of capital including the leverage ratio analysis, which is determined as the ratio between net debt and equity.

The leverage ratio at the end of the period/year is as follows:

	Consolidated
	09/30/2026	12/31/2025
Gross debt and lease payable (a)	19,957,857	21,832,894

26.6. Selection and use of derivative financial instruments

In selecting derivative instruments, the Company considers the estimated rates of return, risks, liquidity, calculation methodology for the carrying and fair values, and the applicable documentation.

Derivative financial instruments are used to hedge identified risks, at amounts that do not exceed 100% of the identified risk. Derivatives are referred to as "derivative instruments" to reflect their restricted function of hedging identified risks.

The table below summarizes the gross balance of the position of derivative instruments contracted as well as of the gains (losses) that affect the equity and the statement of income of the Company and its subsidiaries:

26.7. Hedge accounting

The Company and its subsidiaries use derivative and non-derivative financial instruments for hedging purposes and test, throughout the duration of the hedge, their effectiveness, as well as the changes in their fair value.

The hedged items and the hedging instruments have a high correspondence, since the contracted instruments have characteristics equivalent to the transactions considered as the hedged item. The Company and its subsidiaries designated a hedge ratio for transactions designated for hedge accounting, since the underlying risks of the hedging instruments correspond to the risks of the hedged items.

The Company and its subsidiaries discontinue the hedge accounting when the hedging instrument is settled, the hedged item ceases to exist or the hedge no longer meets the requirements for hedge accounting due to the absence of an economic relationship between the hedged item and the hedging instrument.

26.7.1 Fair value hedge

The Company and its subsidiaries use derivative financial instruments such as fair value hedge to mitigate the risk of variations in interest, exchange rates and commodities, which affect the amount of contracted debts. As of September 30, 2026, no material ineffectiveness was identified in fair value hedge operations.

26.7.2 Cash flow hedge

As of September 30, 2026, the Company and its subsidiaries do not have cash flow hedges.

26.8. Financial instruments (energy trading futures contracts)

The Company's subsidiaries operate in the Free Contracting Environment (ACL) and have entered into bilateral energy purchase and sale contracts with different market players. Accordingly, they assume short and long-term commitments. As a result of mismatched operations, they assume energy surplus or deficit positions, which are measured at a future market price curve (forward curve). Therefore, the Company designates these contracts as financial instruments, according to IFRS 9/CPC 48, at the beginning of the contract, to include the recording of the correct exposure to the risk of future purchase and sale transactions of bilateral contracts.

Sensitivity analysis – level 2 hierarchy

	Valuation technique	Fair value of energy contracts	Sensitivity of inputs to fair value [a]
Financial assets	Discounted cash flow method	1,172,865	+10%	1,329,977
			-10%	994,260
Financial liabilities		655,952	+10%	1,128,149
			-10%	457,642

27. Acquisition of Interest and Control

27.1. Acquisition of service stations from Pão de Açúcar Group by subsidiary Millennium

On June 10, 2024, through its subsidiary Centro de Conveniências Millennium Ltda., the Company signed a contract for the acquisition of 49 service stations from Pão de Açúcar Group, located in the state of São Paulo, for R$ 130,000 plus working capital adjustments. CADE approved the transaction on July 22, 2024. On August 13, 2024, R$ 90,000 was paid as an advance.

Until the period ended September 30, 2026, the acquisition of 28 out of 49 service stations had been completed for a total amount of R$ 72,455, of which R$ 48,563 had previously been paid as an advance.

During the period, the purchase price allocation reports of seven stations acquired in the transaction with GPA were completed. Based on the work performed, no assets or liabilities at fair value that could generate surplus value to be recognized were identified, and no elements featuring bargain purchase gain were observed.

27.2. Hidrovias do Brasil S.A.

In the period from 2023 to 2025, the Company, through its subsidiary Ultra Logística Ltda., made successive acquisitions of shares of Hidrovias do Brasil S.A., initially classified as a financial asset and subsequently as an investment in an associate, until the effective obtainment of corporate control in May 2025, then holding 50.15% of Hidrovias' share capital. The key terms, relevant events, applicable accounting criteria, and purchase price allocation (PPA) were disclosed in the corresponding Note to the annual Financial Statements for the year ended December 31, 2025.

After obtaining control, the Company, through its subsidiary, made additional acquisitions of interests that do not qualify as a business combination. Thus, the differences between the price paid and the equity value of the interests acquired were recorded directly in equity, under acquisition of shares from shareholders. As of September 30, 2026, the Company’s interest in Hidrovias was 64.76% (58.72% as of December 31, 2025), with no other relevant changes related to the business combination during the quarter.

27.3. Petrovila Combustíveis S.A

On December 1, 2025, Neodiesel Ltda., indirect subsidiary of Ultrapar Participações S.A., completed the acquisition of 60% of the capital of Petrovila Combustíveis S.A., qualifying the transaction as a business combination as defined in IFRS 3 / CPC 15 (R1). The main terms and conditions of the acquisition were disclosed in the corresponding Note to the annual Financial Statements for the year ended December 31, 2025.
