4. PRINCIPLES AND GUIDELINES

Health, Safety, and Environment are inseparable parts of ENEVA's management, operation, and decision-making processes.

We believe that valuing life and the environment are non-negotiable values that are essential to business success.

Our work adheres to the highest performance standards, and we take a proactive approach, identifying and managing the risks associated with our activities.

Our activities are based on full compliance with laws and regulations, establishing transparent dialogue with stakeholders.

We believe that the responsibility for promoting a culture of prevention lies with our leaders, by encouraging a sense of individual and collective responsibility for health, safety, and the environment.

We continuously seek to improve our processes, reducing losses and waste, and always striving to minimize/mitigate our potential negative impacts on the environment and surrounding communities.

We uphold inviolable and incorruptible principles, the violation of which is subject to consequence management. The Golden Rules include:
