3. SIGNIFICANT TRANSACTIONS IN THE PERIOD

ACQUISITION OF CONTROL OF EVOLVE PARTICIPAÇÕES EM SOCIEDADES S.A.

On August 3, 2026, the Company completed the acquisition of control of Evolve Participações em Sociedades S.A. ("Evolve"), through the subscription of new common shares representing 60% of the acquiree's capital, as previously disclosed to the market. Evolve currently operates more than 30 company-owned gyms, six of which were opened in the last 12 months, in addition to units under construction. The acquisition reinforces the Company's strategy for expansion in the Central-West region, especially in the Federal District.

The transaction was structured entirely through a capital increase in Evolve, with no payment made to the original shareholders.

The total amount of capital contributions to be made by the Company is R$100 million, of which R$39.7 million was contributed on August 4, 2026 and R$20 million on September 3, 2026. The remaining R$40.3 million will be contributed subject to the fulfillment of the contractual obligations.

The Company's final equity interest may be adjusted based on the working capital and net debt determined as of the closing date, with no change to the total contribution commitment of R$100 million.

Shareholders' Agreement and Derivative Financial Instruments (Put/Call)

On the closing date, a Shareholders' Agreement was entered into, granting the non-controlling shareholders a put option over the remaining 40% of Evolve's share capital and granting the Company a call option over the same interest.

The Company concluded that the non-controlling shareholders retain access to the economic returns and risks associated with the remaining interest until the options are exercised. In accordance with IAS 32 (CPC 39) and IFRS 10 (CPC 36 (R3)):

(i) The non-controlling interest (NCI) remains presented separately within consolidated equity;
(ii) A financial liability was recognized for the present value of the exercise price of the put option granted to the non-controlling shareholders, in the amount of R$76,553, offset by the call option asset of R$10,662, resulting in a net reduction of R$65,891 recognized directly in equity attributable to owners of the Company.

The business combination was accounted for using the acquisition method under IFRS 3 (CPC 15 (R1)). The balance sheet as of July 31, 2026 was used as the preliminary technical basis for measurement, and Management concluded that there were no material changes between that date and the actual closing date (August 3, 2026).

For the nine-month period ended September 30, 2026, the acquired business contributed net profit of R$755. Had the business combination occurred at the beginning of the reporting period, operating revenue and net loss would have been R$49,631 and R$32,622, respectively.

ACQUISITION OF AVOCADO APPS ("AVOCADO")

On June 1, 2026, the Company signed a purchase and sale agreement ("PSA") in which it acquired 100% of the capital of Avocado Apps, LLC ("Avocado").

The total purchase price is USD2.1 million at present value, equivalent to R$10,856 on the transaction closing date, to be paid under the following conditions:

(i) Cash payment: USD720 thousand (R$3,641), settled on the transaction closing date;
(ii) Installment payment: USD668 thousand (R$3,378 at present value), maturing within 180 days from the acquisition date;

Management carried out a technical assessment of the probability of reaching the contractual targets related to the earn-outs. Based on updated business projections and the preliminary PPA, full compliance with the stipulated conditions was estimated as probable, reason why the maximum amount at present value was included in the total consideration on the acquisition date (CPC 15, item 39). Subsequent reassessments of the fair value of this obligation will be recognized in profit or loss as required by the IFRS /CPC standards.

The balance sheet of the acquired company at the acquisition date does not present balances that cannot be measured reliably, and the balance sheet of Avocado as at May 31, 2026 is represented by the following group of assets or liabilities:

Business combination	Avocado

Cash and cash equivalents	443

The purchase price allocation (PPA) and the details of the identified intangible assets are presented on a provisional basis, subject to final adjustments within the measurement period of 12 months set out in CPC 15 (R1). The goodwill of R$7,901 is based on expected future profitability and operational synergies with the Group's digital ecosystem.

Transaction-related costs incurred in connection with the acquisition amounted to R$100. Such costs were recognized directly in profit or loss in the period in which they were incurred.

For the nine-month period ended September 30, 2026, the acquired business contributed net loss of R$444. Had the business combination occurred at the beginning of the reporting period, operating revenue and net loss would have been R$4,879 and R$977, respectively.

INCREASE IN EQUITY INTEREST AND OBTAINMENT OF CONTROL OF TOTALPASS MEXICO

There was no material consideration transferred in this transaction.

Considering the proximity between the period-end closing date and the transaction date, the Company used, as a practical expedient, the December 31, 2025 balance sheet for purposes of measuring the net assets acquired. Management assessed that no significant events occurred between these dates that could materially impact the measurement of assets and liabilities at fair value.

On February 4, 2026, the Company's Board of Directors approved the capital increase, within the limit of the authorized capital, following the completion of the private subscription process initiated on December 1, 2025.

The structuring of the capital increase occurred by using credits related to Interest on Equity, declared on December 1, 2025 and distributed on January 13, 2026. In addition, after the exercise of the preemptive right, 600,243 remaining shares ("Unsubscribed Shares") were subscribed and paid in during the period ended January 23, 2026, totaling R$11,969. As demand exceeded the number of remaining shares available, the Company applied a pro rata allocation among the subscribers. There were no remaining unsubscribed shares, and therefore no auction was required.

The capital increase was made through the issuance of 18,879,791 registered common shares with no par value, at a price of R$19.94 per share. The transaction totaled a contribution of R$376,463, considering the full exercise of the preemptive right, the remaining shares subscription period, and any withdrawals.

As a result of the approval of the Capital Increase, the Company's share capital, fully subscribed and paid in, increased from R$3,147,668, comprising 597,250,053 shares, to R$3,524,131, comprising 616,129,844 shares.

The new shares issued will have the same rights as the existing shares, and will be entitled to full receipt of dividends and/or interest on equity, as well as any other rights.

Total	206,973	195,681	859,381	684,855

(1) Trade receivables mainly refer to recurring amounts from sales of gym plans and TotalPass plans, which are substantially received through the main credit card companies in Brazil and abroad.

(2) The change in the consolidated balances includes the opening balance arising from the commencement of the full consolidation of TotalPass Mexico in January 2026, which does not affect the statement of profit or loss for the period.

As at September 30, 2026, the average collection period for trade receivables is approximately 32 days (32 days as at December 31, 2025).

Due to the Group's business model, the recorded amounts of allowance for expected credit losses are not significant, considering that in the event of non-payment by members, the member access to the unit is blocked and is only enabled upon settlement of the pending amounts. Accordingly, the Group does not record trade receivables and revenue until the respective payment is made.

As a large portion of sales is made using debit and credit cards, which are collected through payment processors, the Group assesses its credit risk as low (see Note 27).

SHORT-TERM LEASES, LEASES OF LOW-VALUE ASSETS AND VARIABLE LEASES

In the nine-month period ended September 30, 2026, the Company incurred R$324 in variable lease expenses in parent and R$18,563 in consolidated (at September 30, 2025, it incurred R$539 in variable lease expense in parent and R$23,726 in consolidated).

In accordance with CPC 06 / IFRS 16 - Leases, in measuring and remeasuring its lease liabilities and right-of-use assets, the Group used the discounted cash flow method without considering projected future inflation in the flows to be discounted (real flow and nominal discount rate). Although the accounting methodology used by the Group is in line with the rule set out in CPC 06 / IFRS 16, it generates distortions in the information to be provided, given the current reality of the long-term interest rates in the Brazilian economic environment.

Pursuant to Official Letter/CVM/SNC/SEP/No.02/2019, the Company presents below the comparative balances of lease liabilities, right-of-use assets, finance cost, and depreciation expense, considering the effect of the projected future inflation for five years using as assumption the inflation indices disclosed by the central banks of the countries where the Group has own operations (Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Mexico, Peru, Paraguay, Uruguay, Argentina, Panama, Costa Rica and Morocco), and discounted at the applicable average rates:

25. EARNINGS PER SHARE

CALCULATION OF EARNINGS PER SHARE

The Group calculates earnings per share by dividing the profit for the period by the weighted average number of shares outstanding during the period.

The equity instruments that will be or can be settled in Company shares are included in the calculation only when their settlement have a dilution impact on the earnings per share.

The table below presents the calculation of profit for the period available to shareholders and the weighted average number of shares outstanding used to calculate basic and diluted earnings per share in each period:

27. FINANCIAL RISK MANAGEMENT

The market risk sensitivity analyses below are based on variations in one of the factors while all of the others remain constant. In practice, this is unlikely to occur and changes in several factors may be correlated; for example, changes in interest rates and foreign exchange rates. The analysis provides only a limited overview, at a given point in time. The actual impact on the Group's financial instruments may vary significantly in relation to the impact presented in the sensitivity analysis.

Risk management is carried out by the Group's Management in accordance with the policies approved by the Executive Board.

The main financial risks that can have a significant adverse impact on the Group's strategy, performance, results of operations and financial situation are described below. The risks listed below are not presented in a particular order of relative importance or probability of occurrence.

MARKET RISK MANAGEMENT

The market risk to which the Group is exposed consists of the possibility of fluctuations in foreign exchange and interest rates impacting the valuation of financial assets or liabilities, as well as of certain expected cash flows being negatively impacted by changes in interest rates, foreign exchange rates or other price variables.

We present below a description of the risks mentioned above, as well as a breakdown of the extent to which the Group is exposed and an analysis of the sensitivity to changes in each of the relevant market variables.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE RISK MANAGEMENT

Foreign exchange risk is the risk that the fair value of future cash flows of a financial instrument fluctuates as a result of changes in exchange rates. The Group's exposure to foreign exchange risk refers mainly to its operating activities (when revenues or expenses are denominated in a currency other than the Group's functional currency) and the Group's net investments in foreign subsidiaries.

The Company and its Brazilian subsidiaries are not exposed to significant foreign exchange risks for transactions carried out in currencies other than the Brazilian real, as the amount of transactions in other currencies is not material.

The Company is exposed to foreign exchange risk on its investments in foreign subsidiaries, mainly in its operations in Mexico, Colombia, Chile, Peru, Panama, Costa Rica, Argentina, Paraguay, Uruguay, Spain and Morocco due to the transactions carried out in currencies other than the local currency of these countries. Management believes that these are long-term investments and monitors the operational return on these investments and any short-term foreign currency fluctuations will not have immediate financial impacts for the Group.

In addition, Management believes that the interest rate risk is limited, since all revenues (and nearly all expenses) are incurred in the local currency in the country in which the Group operates. Therefore, there is no significant exposure to fluctuations in foreign currency.

INTEREST RATE RISK MANAGEMENT

Interest rate risk is the risk that the fair value of future cash flows of a financial instrument fluctuates as a result of changes in market interest rates. The Group's exposure to interest rate risk refers mainly to its long-term obligations subject to variable interest rates.

The Company raises borrowings in local currency with the major financial institutions, at fixed and variable interest rates, among which the CDI, to cover the cash requirements for investments and customer financing. Concurrently, the Company makes financial investments linked to CDI, aiming at partially offsetting the impacts on profit or loss. Additionally, foreign subsidiaries also have borrowings in their local currencies, mainly at variable rates for Mexico, Colombia, Chile and Uruguay, and at fixed rates for Peru, Panama, Paraguay and Morocco. The Group's main borrowings are described in note 18.

The sensitivity analyses below were determined based on variable interest rate exposures at September 30, 2026. A 10% increase or decrease represents management's assessment of a reasonably possible change in interest rates. A positive number below would indicate an increase in results (finance income) and a negative number would indicate a decrease in results (finance costs). If interest rates were 10% higher/lower, with no changes in other variables, the effects would be as follows:

	Impact on profit or loss
	10% increase	10% decrease
PARENT
Interest rate sensitivity
Variable interest	(40,284)	40,284
CONSOLIDATED
Interest rate sensitivity
Variable interest	(49,336)	49,336

In Brazil, the Group contracted an interest rate swap to hedge the total exposure of the 2nd series of the 7th debenture issuance, swapping the IPCA index for the CDI. The instrument has a structure similar to that of the hedged item. The mark-to-market in the amount of R$599 is recognized as income in finance income (costs), and the Group has not applied hedge accounting for this instrument.

PRICE RISK MANAGEMENT

Investments in shares of listed companies are subject to market price risk arising from uncertainties regarding the future values of these equity investments. The Group manages the share price risk through a monitoring of the changes in prices to identify significant movements.

The Group holds investments in shares of Sports World, a company listed on the Mexican Stock Exchange. The table below details the effect that a 10% variation in the prices of this Company's shares would have on the Group's other comprehensive income:

	Impact on profit or loss
	10% increase	10% decrease
CONSOLIDATED
Price sensitivity
Shares of listed company	11,221	(11,221)

LIQUIDITY RISK MANAGEMENT

Liquidity risk refers to the inability to have the necessary resources to meet obligations in the short, medium and long term.

The Group manages the liquidity risk by continuously monitoring budgeted and actual cash flows, combining the maturity profiles of financial and operating assets and liabilities, and maintaining adequate cash reserves. Because of the dynamics of its business, the Group maintains flexibility in raising funds by maintaining credit facilities with some financial institutions.

The table below shows the maturity of the financial liabilities contracted by the Group:

(1) Includes interest to be incurred.

As at September 30, 2026, there are guarantees granted by the Group by means of letters of guarantee from independent financial institutions related to the payment of lease agreements and other accounts payable in the amount of R$58,842 (R$64,824 as at December 31, 2025). Additionally, in parent, there are guarantees granted by the Company through SBLC for borrowing agreements of certain subsidiaries, in the amount of R$443,742 (R$579,057 as at December 31, 2025).

Fundraising may contain operational and financial covenants. Generally, financial covenants are related to the liquidity level in respect of the ratio of cash and cash equivalents and short-term debt, and to the leverage ratio in respect of the ratio of net debt and accumulated EBITDA of the last 12 months (note 18).

The budget projection for the next fiscal years approved by Management demonstrates ability to meet obligations.

CREDIT RISK MANAGEMENT

Credit risk is the risk that the counterparty to a business fails to fulfill an obligation under a financial instrument or customer contract, which would lead to the recognition of losses. The operations of the Group comprise mainly the provision of services related to physical fitness activities. Services are legally supported by agreements and other legal instruments that may be necessary. The Group is exposed to credit risk for cash and cash equivalents, financial investments and derivative financial instruments held with financial institutions and for the position of receivables generated in trading transactions with customers. The carrying amounts of these financial instruments, as disclosed in notes 4, 5, 6, 9 and 10, represent the Group's maximum credit exposure.

For the balances of cash and cash equivalents, financial investments and derivative financial Instruments, in order to minimize the credit risk, the Group presents in meetings of the Board of Directors the investment strategies, which are restricted to banking relationships in validated financial institutions. In these meetings, monetary limits and risk concentration are also established, which are regularly updated. The Group's exclusive investment funds contain a portfolio based mainly on federal government securities, financial bills and repurchase agreements.

For the balances of trade receivables, the credit risk is mitigated by the fact that a large part of the sales are made using debit and credit cards as means of payment, and the transactions are substantially securitized with the credit card companies. The Group assesses the risk concentration related to trade receivables as low, since its customers are located in several jurisdictions/countries.

On the other hand, the Group's business model with recurring collection reduces the risk of losses and, in case of non-payment by the members, the access to the units is blocked, and is restored only with the settlement of the amounts pending payment. With this operating model, the Group does not record trade receivables (and the respective revenue) for the members while they do not regularize the plan and return to use the gym. For this reason, the amounts provisioned for expected losses are not material.

We present below trade receivables arising from contracts with customers, by maturity:

Other receivables do not contain impaired assets and are not past due. Based on the credit history of these other classes, the Group expects these amounts to be received on maturity.

The Group does not maintain guarantees for trade receivables and other receivables.

CAPITAL RISK MANAGEMENT

The Group manages its capital to ensure that it will be able to continue as a going concern in order to offer return to shareholders and maintain an adequate capital structure to reduce the cost of capital.

The Group's capital structure consists of cash and cash equivalents (note 4), investments in financial assets (note 5), trade receivables (note 6), other receivables (note 10), trade payables (note 15), other liabilities (note 17), borrowings (note 18) and equity (note 21).

Management periodically reviews the capital structure and its ability to settle liabilities and timely monitors the average term of receivables and payables, taking the necessary actions to maintain them at levels considered adequate for financial management.

The executive board is responsible for the preparation of the individual interim financial information in accordance with Accounting Pronouncement CPC 21 (R1) - Interim Financial Reporting, and consolidated interim financial information in accordance with the International Financial Reporting Standard (IFRS Accounting Standards) IAS 34 - Interim Financial Reporting, issued by the International Accounting Standards Board (IASB), as well as for the fair presentation of this information in conformity with the rules issued by the Brazilian Securities and Exchange Commission (CVM) applicable to the preparation of Quarterly Information (ITR). Our responsibility is to express a conclusion on this interim financial information based on our review.

Scope of review

We conducted our review in accordance with Brazilian and International Standards on Review Engagements (NBC TR 2410 and ISRE 2410 - Review of Interim Financial Information Performed by the Independent Auditor of the Entity, respectively). A review of interim financial information consists of making inquiries, primarily of persons responsible for financial and accounting matters, and applying analytical and other review procedures. A review is substantially less in scope than an audit conducted in accordance with auditing standards and, consequently, does not enable us to obtain assurance that we would become aware of all significant matters that might be identified in an audit. Accordingly, we do not express an audit opinion.

Conclusion on the individual and consolidated interim financial information

Based on our review, nothing has come to our attention that causes us to believe that the accompanying individual and consolidated interim financial information included in the Quarterly Information was not prepared, in all material respects, in accordance with Accounting Pronouncement CPC 21 (R1) and IAS 34 applicable to the preparation of Quarterly Information (ITR), and presented consistently with the rules issued by the CVM.
